The request that the opinions of business men on this question be obtained and published did not reach The Times until after the Federation meeting hast evening, which made it too late to secure the ititerviews, and this explanation must serve as no apology for their not appearing

The result of the appeal in the unfortunate man's behalf is especially gratifying to The Times, which was the first-and for a considerable time the only-newspaper to voice the sentiments of those who believed the extreme penalty not juddied by the sircumstances surrounding the case.

To Deputy Commissioner of Pensions Bell belongs the credit for inaugurating the movement, for it was a conversation between that gentleman and the editor that led to The Times giving the matter its earnest affection.

The Times took exactly the position taken by the President, and, as said before, the result is very gratifying to it.

In the last paragraph of his indersement on the application for a commutation, President Cleveland comments on "the advisubility of a classification of murder into degrees, as has been done with good peoplts in some of the States."

The obsence of such a classification has always been a source of amorphics in the Unit money is so long as it is not disadministration of the criminal law in the District. Not only that, but it has in numerous cases led to a direct frustration

Juries have been slow to bring in verdicts of number where the instructions of the judge left them no alternative between the extreme crime and that of manslaughter. It was, perhaps, becase they knew that In such cases the Judge could pronounce no sentence short of the death sensity, and that clemency by only with the President of the United States:

This care is only another argument for a complete revision of criminal procedure in the District. Many attempts have been surds to codify the laws, criminal and civil, but for some reason they have in-Parintly failed.

They serve as a pleasing contrast to the great host of veterans whose pride and boast it is that the dead must is burying the past, and that shoulder to shoulder, animated by one supreme purpose, they are doing their share in upholding the honor of the flag and speeding the glorious destiny of the

THE WHITE MAN'S DISGRACE.

The massacre of the Bannock Indians is disgrace that may only be wiped out in bloody retribution. It is a bitter commentary on the whole miserable treatment of the red man by the government. These Indians were merely seeking food. It is their nature to promite it by hunting If ever game should be free to any one, that one is the Indian, and especially so in the country where the Bannocks have been slaughtered.

We have allowed the white man to go into this very country and exterminate buffalo and deer for very wantenness Our own Federal officers have been known make it their hanting ground and no great outery has been raised against them. Europeans on pleasure bent go there for sport, and often have the companionship and protection of officers of the army. And yet we will not allow the Indian to seek food in the way that has been his for centuries. We have taken his lands and we are supposed by way of compensation to see that he is properly fed and cared for. The rations he receives are not sufficient for his support, and if he be not permitted to hant he must necessarily go hungry.

"The only good Indian is a dead Indian was evidently the policy of those responsible for the massacre in Hoback Canon, and they should be brought to a strict account-

GOOD NEWS FROM ALEXANDRIA COUNTY.

From all appearances the good people d Alexandria county will have good cause to resolve over the result of the trial of the missted election cases, for it looks as if "Dickie" Jolinson's goose is cooked. The evidence so far put in shows plainly that fraud and intimidation were practiced, and that even the Walton election law-that remarkable contrivance of political legerdemain-was openly violated. The report of the proceedings, published in The Times to-day, makes interesting reading.

One of the most striking features of the testimony is that which shows the commonwealth attorney, the man of all others who should uphold the law-even Slippery Dick foruself-secting its mandate at naught. He marked bullets for voters, although the law forbade him, he being a candidate for me of the offices voted for.

The incident in which Constable Sisson and the negro Butter figured as princomis, is shown to have been a "put-up job," intended to get rid of Sisson and put up once one mere plant in charge of the election booth. It was understood that the reformers were to be "done" if they undertool to challenge, and thus the game went on

There is no doubt that the outcome of this trial will show that the law-abiding element of Alexandria county's population was in butler earnest at the last election and intended to rid the county of the rule of thugs, gamblers and corruptionsis and that but for the desperate practices of Johnson and his crowd, the present legal proceedings would have been unnecessary. The returns would have shown

A brighter day is dawning for th order-loving people of the county and before long crime and vice will not venture to hold up their heads there openly and numolested. and when the next legislature meets a long pull, a strong pull and a pull ategether will relegate the outlaw track to the limbo of rotten and forgotten things.

The trial of the Alexandria county contested election cases began its second ses-sion in the old court house on North Columbus street yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, and the entire day was taken up in the examination of four of the witnesse for the contestants. Much of the slowness of the trial was due to the fact that the atorneys for Messrs, Johnson and Duncan had innumerable objections to interpose to many of the questions asked the wit-nesses on the other side, which had to be argued at great length.

In the re-direct examination by Mr. Armstrong witness said he had not gone into the voting booth except at the request of a voter to mark his treet for him. He understood that after the trouble with Peverill, W. L. Heath, one of Johnson's leutemants, had told the men about the polls to give the witness "h-1."

This was excluded by the court as only CANDIDATE DOUGLAS' TESTIMONY. W. W. Douglas, the cheated candidate for commonwealth's attorney, was next When witness arrived at the Four Mile Run precinct he saw part of the trouble between Constable Sisson and James Peverill over the marking of But-ler's boilot. He saw Peverill arrested by a constable and carried away. He heard threats against Mr. Sisson and heard these standing around say there was to be no voting until Mr. Johnson arrived, The mob about the voting booth was very violent, and the witness looked for an

Witness saw a number of men vote whose vote he would have challenged but for the fact that he had seen such riotous demonstrations that he was afraid to do so, for fear of causing an outbreak, and speed with a small forced draft, and white there are no premiums for increased speed, a penalty of the thousand collars a knot will be imposed for any deficiency down to 11 knots, below which speed the boats may was unwilling to assume the respons
